

International Summer School on Translation Studies

23 June – 27 June 2025

Translation in a Turbulent World III: Translation and Materiality

The FUSP – Nida Centre for Advanced Research on Translation invites advanced graduate students and interested scholars to online gatherings with a hybrid format: via virtual access from anywhere in the world, associates will participate in an ongoing dialogue with faculty who will gather in person. We welcome you to bring your research and share your questions with our constantly expanding scholarly community!

Main components of the summer school's programme:

- faculty papers
- workshops
- plenary and group discussions
- round tables
- individual tutorials

The Summer School will provide participants with academic knowledge and advanced training throughout the week. During the Summer School, the associates will present their research.

Two weeks before the start of the Summer School, you are invited to join a meeting in which we'll introduce you to all the organizational and practical aspects of the programme.

Requisites and application procedure
